Select the division you wish you to view by hovering over the division, which will reveal a blue “View” button. Click the button to access the specific division page.

A screenshot of the IACPlearn website. The top navigation bar includes "IACPlearn", "In-Person Events", "Police Chief Magazine", "IACPnet", "IACPengage", "IACP Website", and "Membership". Below the navigation bar is a search section with "All Types", "3 selected", and a "Find" button. The main content area is titled "2021 DIVISION MIDYEAR EVENT PROGRAM" and includes a link to "Click here to view the 2021 Division Midyear Program". A section titled "2021 DIVISION MIDYEAR REGISTRATION" lists three divisions: "2021 Division Midyear - Midsized Agencies Division", "2021 Division Midyear - Division of State Associations of Chiefs of Police", and "2021 Division Midyear - The Division of State and Provincial Police". Each division entry includes a description, a "View" button, and a logo. A red circle highlights the "View" button for the Midsized Agencies Division, with a red arrow pointing to it from the left. A purple banner on the left side of the page reads "IACP 2020 Gain access to 120+ workshops on IACPlearn for $250".

Each division page has a yellow navigation bar with four features (pictured below with numbers in red for reference):

1. Overview: description of the event and a link to take you back to Division Midyear Event page
2. Speaker(s): listing of all the speakers for the event with brief bios
3. Event Program: a pdf version of the full event program
4. Sessions: descriptions and links to all the event sessions; this is where you will access all the event sessions, both live and on-demand

★ The Truths About De-escalation: Shifting the Narrative with the Community
03/30/2021 at 2:15 PM (EDT) | 70 minutes
De-escalation. It's a term frequently used by politicians, activists, and law enforcement professionals. But what is it? And more importantly, what is it not? Many people, both inside and outside of law enforcement, don't have a realistic understanding of de-escalation and that misunderstanding can negatively affect police/community relations. In this course we examine three fundamental truths that can guide discussions with the community, political leaders, and the officers in your agency. We will review critical policy issues that must be addressed regarding use of force and de-escalation, to ensure consistent expectations for officers and the community alike. We will also examine key training strategies for empowering your officers with the tools they need to attempt de-escalation.
