

2021 IACP Training Conference on Drugs, Alcohol, and Impaired Driving
Rules for Participation in Conferences with Online Content

Thank you for registering for the 2021 IACP Training Conference on Drugs, Alcohol, and Impaired Driving (DAID), herein referred to as “the Event”. To ensure the best possible experience for all attendees, we have established some basic rules for participation.

By registering for this event, you agree that you have read and will follow these rules. You also agree to reserve discussions and content to that best suited to the platform. Questions should be directed to IACP Staff at DAIDconference@theIACP.org.

Please take a moment to acquaint yourself with these important rules. If you have questions, contact IACP. To preserve an environment that encourages both civil and fruitful dialogue, we reserve the right to suspend or terminate access in this online event for anyone who violates these rules.

Participants.

Registration is open to members of the IACP and qualified non-members which include employees of transnational, federal, state, local and tribal law enforcement agencies and their contractors; institutions of higher education; public, private, and not-for-profit organizations whose work supports the public safety mission of the IACP; and employees of state, local, tribal, or federal government.

Access.

Your registration entitles you to access the Event for which you have registered. All other costs associated with your attendance shall be borne solely by you, and IACP shall have no liability for such costs.

Use of Likeness.

By participating in the Event you acknowledge and agree to grant IACP the right at the Event to record, film, live stream, photograph, or capture you, including your likeness and/or voice, in any media now available or hereafter developed and to distribute, broadcast, use, or otherwise globally to disseminate, in perpetuity, such media without any further approval from you or any payment to you. This grant to IACP includes, but is not limited to, the right to edit such media, the right to use the media alone or together with other information, and the right to allow others to use or disseminate the media.

Limitations on Use.

By registering for the Event, you agree not to share, sell, or trade your access. If IACP determines that you have violated this policy, IACP may cancel your access, retain any payments made by you, and ban you from future virtual Events.

Etiquette.

You agree to use your name when posting questions or within chat areas on the platform and not remain anonymous.

When posting items in our collaborative environment, please state whether the item is or is not available for reuse. It is also advisable to contact the owner of any material if you would like to reuse it, especially if there is any copyright notice attached to the material.

Post your message or documents only to the most appropriate chat areas (i.e. education session chats). This helps ensure all messages receive the best response by eliminating "noise."

Disruptive Conduct.

IACP will actively monitor the site for inappropriate postings, to include defamatory, abusive, profane, offensive, illegal, or promotional comments within the platform and delete them. You acknowledge and agree that IACP reserves the right to remove you from the Event if IACP, in its sole discretion, determines that your participation or behavior creates a disruption or hinders the Event or the enjoyment of the Event content by other attendees.

Recording, Live Streaming, and Videotaping.

Participants may not record or broadcast audio or video of sessions presented at the Event. All sessions presented will be available for on-demand viewing for three (3) months to registered attendees.

Endorsements and Opinions.

This platform is provided as a service for the registrants of the 2021 Event. The IACP does not recommend, endorse, or accept responsibility for the proper performance of any product or services promoted or posted by speakers, participants, exhibitors and/or sponsors.

Copyrighted Material.

Do not post any information or other material protected by copyright without the permission of the copyright owner. By posting material, the posting party warrants and represents that he or she: (i) owns the intellectual rights to the material, including the right to copyright the material; and/or (ii) in the case of materials to which the posting party does not own the intellectual property rights, the posting party has written consent, authorization or license to use the third party's intellectual property in the post (IACP may demand a copy of the consent, authorization or license); and/or (iii) the material is in the public domain. Please note that just because something is on the Internet, does not mean that it is in the public domain; in fact, most websites and content on the Internet are copyrighted. In addition, the posting party grants IACP and users of this site the nonexclusive right and license to display, copy, publish, distribute, transmit, print, and use such information or other material.

Price Fixing, Limiting Free Trade.

Messages should not be posted if they encourage or facilitate attendees to arrive at any agreement that either expressly or impliedly leads to price fixing, a boycott of another's business, or other conduct intended to illegally restrict free trade. Messages that encourage or facilitate an agreement about the following subjects are inappropriate: prices, discounts, or terms or conditions of sale; salaries; profits, profit margins, or cost data; market shares, sales territories, or markets; allocation of customers or territories; or selection, rejection, or termination of customers or suppliers.

Indemnification.

All persons participating in, registering for, accessing or using the platform and virtual conference that are the subject matters of these rules do hereby agree to defend, indemnify and hold harmless IACP, its directors, officers and employees (Indemnitees) from and against any claims for damages or relief brought by third parties against IACP which claims are based on: (i) the participant's or registrant's violation of any law, such as antitrust, copyright, defamation or trademark law; (ii) the participant's or registrant's breach of any warranties or violation of any rules made herein; or (iii) the willful or negligent acts or omissions of the participant or registrant.

With Whom Do We Share the Personal Information We Collect Through This Site:

Our Exhibitors and Sponsors.

IACP will share reports that will include name, title, agency, and email address of any 2021 IACP Training Conference on DAID participant who listens to a sponsored educational session for a minimum of ten (10) minutes or clicks on any company listed in the Exhibitors area of the online platform. The information shared is for lead retrieval purposes only.

IACP Exhibitors and Sponsors agree not to share or sell this information. They agree to protect the personal information and remove it if requested by the attendee. Attendees can email IACP at dataprivacy@theIACP.org to be removed or the company directly to be removed from any contact lists.

External Sites

IACP is not responsible for the content of external internet sites shared on this platform. You are advised to read the privacy policy of external sites before disclosing any personal information.

Cookies

A "cookie" is a small data text file that is placed in your browser and allows us to recognize you each time you visit this site (personalization, etc.). The platform and websites of the exhibitors may use cookies, which will be subject to their privacy policies – we accept no responsibility or liability for the use of such third parties' cookies.

Remember the Risks Whenever You Use the Internet

While we do our best to protect your personal information, we cannot guarantee the security of any information that you transmit to us and you are solely responsible for maintaining the secrecy of any passwords or other account information. In addition, other Internet sites or services that may be accessible through our site have separate data and privacy practices independent of us, and therefore we disclaim any responsibility or liability for their policies or actions. Please contact those vendors and others directly if you have any questions about their privacy policies.

Privacy Policy

"Personal Data" is any information that enables us to identify you, directly or indirectly, by reference to an identifier such as your name, identification number, location data, online identifier or one or more factors specific to your physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity.

IACP's Privacy Policy is available here in its entirety.

These Rules for Participation in IACP Online Events is in addition to the Privacy Options you select when setting up your profile on the event platform. You can request a copy of the data the platform provider, Cadmium, holds about you utilizing this form.

Exhibitor and Sponsor Rules

Suitcasing

Use caution when discussing products. Information posted in the chat areas is available for all to see, and comments are subject to libel, slander, and antitrust laws. The IACP considers the practice of suitcasing to be unethical business conduct and strictly prohibits the practice. Suitcasing refers to the practice of companies or persons who attend shows as attendees but "work the aisles" (or chat rooms in a virtual setting) from their suitcase (briefcase), soliciting business from other attendees and exhibitors. For the good of the show and the exhibitors supporting the show, the only legitimate place to conduct business during show hours is within a contracted virtual exhibit booth. There is to be no sales messaging by nonexhibiting suppliers within chat functions of the Event. All violations will be directed to the IACP Board for penalties and sanctions against the violating company. Exhibiting companies are encouraged to protect their investment and report any violations immediately to IACP Show Management.
